Time and Material Cost for Data Recovery of SEC I-view

A. Background

The Sec i-View an online document retrieval system facility under SEC i-Report is an online system that caters both internal and external users of SEC. It provides document retrieval services on various documents being submitted by registered companies for monitoring and compliance to reportorial requirements.

The system was implemented and operational for several years. External users can access the system through PIN Mailer being purchased at SEC and mass loading in which payment can be made through payment gateway recognized by SEC. This system has gained several millions of revenues to the Commission and government as well.

On December 2019, the system has reached its limitation and encountered system downtime due to hardware problem and severely affected some of its components. Since the hardware is considerably outdated based on initial assessment, the approach to conduct time and material was recommended to further assess the magnitude of the problem and be able to initiate appropriate strategy to recover some data that are considered critical and significant if the whole system can be recovered and restore to its normal state.

B. Project Scope

The provider shall provide services to conduct further hardware diagnostics and assessment based on "Time and Material" approach. Considering the nature and condition of the equipment, the provision for materials that are determined necessary to restore the equipment on its operational state is also included.

C. Technical Specifications

	SPECIFICATIONS	COMPLY/NOT COMPLY
1	Provision on technical services to conduct further assessment on hardware problem and initiate appropriate action to restore the equipment on its operational state.
2	Provision on major materials necessary and compatible to the equipment. Installation and configuration of the materials are also included.
	OTHER REQUIREMENTS
	Assessment Report with findings and appropriate recommendation shall be provided to ICTD.
	Warranty on the materials and services rendered.

I hereby certify to comply with the above Technical Specifications.
